Taking into account the state of the art, the costs of implementation and the nature, scope, context and purposes of processing as well as the risk of varying likelihood and severity for the rights and freedoms of natural persons, the Data Controller shall implement appropriate technical and organisational measures to ensure a level of data security appropriate to the risk.

The Data Controller implements appropriate measures to protect the data in particular from unauthorised access, alteration, transfer, disclosure to the public, erasure or destruction, accidental destruction and compromise, as well as from becoming inaccessible due to changes in the technology applied.

The Data Controller's IT system and network are protected against computer-assisted fraud, spying, sabotage, vandalism, fire and flood, computer viruses, hacking and denial-of-service attacks. The Data Controller has server-level and application-level protection mechanisms in place to provide for security.

Electronic messages forwarded through the internet, irrespective of protocol (email, web, ftp, etc.) are vulnerable to network threats which may lead to unfair activities, challenging the contract, or the disclosure or alteration of information. The Data Controller will take all reasonable precautions to provide protection against such threats. It monitors its systems so that any security discrepancies can be logged and that it has evidence in case of security incidents. In addition, system monitoring also allows for the efficiency of the precautions applied to be verified.

The Data Controller documents any personal data breaches, if any, comprising the facts relating to the personal data breach, its effects and the remedial action taken.

Your rights relating to data processing:

The Controller shall provide you with information on action taken on a request under Section a)-e) without undue delay and in any event within one month of receipt of the request. That period may be extended by two further months where necessary, taking into account the complexity and number of the requests. The Controller shall inform you of any such extension within one month of receipt of the request, together with the reasons for the delay.

a) Right of access: you shall have the right to obtain from the Controller confirmation as to whether or not your personal data are being processed, and, where that is the case, you may obtain information about the details of the processing and you have the right to obtain your personal data being processed in electronic format from the Controller.

b) Right to rectification: you shall have the right to obtain from the Controller without undue delay the rectification of inaccurate personal data concerning you and you shall have the right to have incomplete personal data completed.

c) Right to erasure (“right to be forgotten”): You may request to terminate the processing by sending your written request to the Controller's contact address specified above or sending it by mail or by making a request and recording it in writing over the phone by calling the specified phone number. In this case, the Controller takes all reasonable steps in order to inform further processors about your request to terminate the processing.

d) Right to object: you shall have the right to object at any time to processing of your personal data when the processing is based on the Controller's legitimate interest.

e) Right to restriction of processing: you shall have the right to obtain from the Controller restriction of processing if the accuracy of the personal data is contested by you; the processing is unlawful; the Controller no longer needs the personal data for the purposes of the processing, but they are required by you for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims; you have objected to processing.
